

Aktiv reachers are light and have ergonomically designed handles to make reaching and gripping easier. The jaws open wide but still grab the smallest item. They are available in a number of models to suit various requirements. All models have a magnet in the handle to help pick up metallic objects.

Aktiv reacher

The jaws of the reacher can be set in two positions. This means that the reacher can be used both horizontally and vertically without having to turn the arm.

The handle is slightly angled and only requires a small hand grip to manoeuvre. This utilises the strength in the hand and provides an effective grip. The entire gripping surface of the jaws is coated with hard-wearing rubber increasing grip-ability and reducing the amount of strength required.

The jaws can be set to two positions.

Reacher with hook

This handy reacher has many functions. The slightly angled handle utilises the strength in the hand. The jaws are provided with hooks to pull or push things, which also makes it suitable as an aid for dressing and undressing. The jaws can also be rotated and are fitted with patterned rubber on the inside to provide a safe grip.

The hook makes this reacher suitable when dressing and undressing.
